Bogalusa Negroes to Defy Order

BOGALUSA, La. (AP) — Negroes voted to defy a city ordinance and stage a protest march tonight.

The vote was taken Monday night at a meeting held by the Bogalusa Civic and Voters League to hear Negro pupils of the Bogalusa Junior High School complain of harassment by white pupils.

League President A. Z. Young told the approximately 200 Negroes: "When you get some money, don't spend it on wine, get a gun."

He said the league had declared war on the Ku Klux Klan and "someone is going to have to die."

The league has complained that the only purpose of banning night marches is to halt such demonstrations during the only time Negroes can take part in

Benefits Bill Vetoed to Cut Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has vetoed a $90-million increase in government employee insurance benefits, declaring it is inflationary and inconsistent with his call for restraint in federal spending.

Johnson acted Monday night after the House Ways and Means Committee completed its first day of hearings on a key portion of the President's anti-inflation package: suspension of the 7 per cent investment tax credit and the tax-advantaged accelerated depreciation allowance.

The veto came as Republican committee members prepared to challenge administration budget-cutting claims.

Led by Rep. Thomas B. Curtis, R-Mo., the GOP members planned to question Budget Director Charles L. Schultz when hearings resume today.

Schultz said Monday the administration already is enforcing a "first slice" budget cut of about $1.5 billion.

Schultz, Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler and Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor presented the President's proposals to the committee in the opening hearing.

Johnson announced his veto of the insurance bill at a hastily called news conference in his office saying, "At a time when we are making every effort to reduce low-priority federal spending in other areas, this bill cannot be justified."

"Many members of Congress share my belief that our anti-inflationary efforts must include restraint on spending," he added. "The measure I have vetoed today is totally inconsistent with our common goal."

Johnson said if similar benefits were extended to all American workers by their employers "we would be fueling the fires of inflation by nearly $3 billion."

He said average federal salary and insurance benefits had risen by 75 per cent in the past 10 years — more than half again as much as the 47 per cent increase in average factory worker pay.

"The bill goes far beyond my recommendations — and far beyond anything the American taxpayer should be asked to pay for at this time," Johnson said. He had recommended a $12 million insurance benefit increase.

The veto was the sixth of his presidency and second within eight weeks. The last bill he rejected would have granted cost of living increases to star route, or contract, mail carriers.

them because of their employment and other activities. A hearing on a suit attacking the ordinance will be held in U.S. District Court in New Orleans Oct. 5.

While the league meeting was being held, about 650 whites went before the Bogalusa School Board to protest federal orders integrating the schools.

Board Chairman Alcous Stewart said the orders would be appealed. "We cannot live under the court order we are under," he said. "It is an impossibility."

Whites booted Wyatt Fleming, principal of Bogalusa Junior High, where several complaints had originated. He said that investigations had shown that of several incidents involving Negro and white pupils, the whites were guilty.

Fleming added there would be protection for all children attending classes.

Saxon Farmer, a segregation leader, drew loud cheers when he told the group: "I don't know why it is that elected and appointed officials haven't got the guts to stand up and fight the battle."

Earlier in the day, Farmer's brother, Paul Farmer, was arrested on charges of disturbing the peace after he allegedly pointed a shotgun at Rowan Burris, a member of the militant Deacons for Defense in front of the Bogalusa Junior High School.

About 50 whites and about 20 Negroes then armed themselves and engaged in a glaring standoff for about 30 minutes before police dispersed the crowd.

Viet Nam Vote Reaction Is Enthusiastic

By DICK BARNES

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is taking a cautiously optimistic middle ground between the enthusiastic reaction of some senators to the South Viet Nam elections and the doubts of a leading Senate critic of administration foreign policy.

"We are glad the elections were held and we are glad the people participated," the President told a news conference Monday night.

"We think it is a good sign. We hope that they will go on and take additional steps."

But Johnson refused to be drawn into further discussion of the balloting which picked a constituent assembly to draft a constitution for the war-torn country.

He cut off one questioner by saying "those correspondents out there (in Viet Nam) can give you all the information, I don't want to be misunderstood or misquoted."

His remarks were more guarded than those of Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., who declared in a Senate speech that the Viet Cong "may well have suffered their Dien Bien Phu at the polls."

The battle of Dien Bien Phu led to the ouster of the French from Viet Nam in 1954.

Kuchel, the assistant Republican leader, called the election "an extraordinary demonstration by a poor and humble people of their courageous devotion to self-government."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said the 80 per cent voter turnout was a tonic to "those who believe our faith in the Vietnamese and their desire for self-determination has been fully vindicated."

Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, a critic of Johnson's Viet Nam policies, said, "I don't have any great faith in those elections considering that Mr. Ky (the premier) said only neutralists and non-Communists could vote."

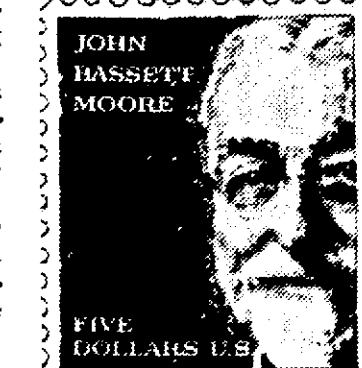

"That's pretty much like holding an election in the South and saying only Democrats could vote," he told a newsman. "It's difficult to judge an election in a country where they've never had an honest election."

Gruening said, however, the results "might be very good if the government is responsive to the desires of the people."

State Department reaction was guarded. A spokesman said, "Progress toward constitutional government in the face of Communist infiltration and terror require the courage and interest demonstrated in yesterday's vote."

Bill Is Offered

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to establish a 100,500-acre Biscayne National Monument on the upper Florida Keys has been introduced in the House by Rep. Dante B. Fascell, D-Fla.

FIVE DOLLARS, highest in the new "Prominent Americans" series, is the denomination of a new stamp honoring internationally famed jurist John Bassett Moore. An assistant secretary of state at 25, Moore became an authority on international law, later sitting as judge on both The Hague Tribunal and the Permanent Court of International Justice.

Violence Is Revived at Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Despite civil rights leaders' pleas to end violence, defiant Negro youths hurled rocks and fire bombs Monday night before police sealed off the area.

The outbreak was in the same tense, predominantly Negro section where racial rioting erupted Saturday and Sunday nights, resulting in numerous arrests and extensive property damage.

The outburst came after a meeting at a church where leaders from the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee vied for a following.

Police moved rapidly, clearing sidewalks and even porches. A cold, drizzly rain helped. By midnight, the area was quiet.

Police questioned suspects in connection with the fatal shooting Saturday night of a Negro teenager, Herbert Verner, considered the spark that started the rioting.

At the meeting, Josefa Williams, political action director of the SNCC, was shouted down with cries of "black power!" Some 100 of the militant youths walked out of the Tabernacle Baptist Church when Williams spoke. They later returned.

He stressed the need for independent thinking and hit hard at the need for education and economic betterment.

SNCC speakers, however, condemned authorities and white men in general, blaming them for the Saturday shooting.

Willie Ricks, SNCC field secretary, said, "We're going to have every cracker in Atlanta on his knees. We're willing to pay the price."

Minutes after Williams finished speaking, bottles, rocks and firecrackers began to fly. One group of Negroes attempted to overturn a station wagon with a CBS television crew inside.

Ben Clarke, a member of the SNCC, talked the group away from the car.

Earlier in the day, Mayor Ivan Allen Jr. met twice with groups of Negro leaders, and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. toured the riot area.

Stokely Carmichael, national chairman of the SNCC, remained in jail in lieu of $10,000 bond. He is charged with helping instigate the first outbreak of violence last week.

A spokesman for the private fire departments says the engines have never had plates.

Marvell Will Not Follow 'Guideline'

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Marvell School board says the 1966 guidelines to the 1964 Civil Rights Act are "unreasonable, educationally unsound, unworkable and impose undue administrative burdens, as applied to this district."

The board declined to sign compliance pledges to the new guidelines after complying with the 1965 guidelines.

Parents of 65 Negro children in the district filed suit in U.S. District Court last August. They asked the court to order the board to comply to the 1966 guidelines and to admit their children to predominantly white schools.

The board filed its answer to the suit in federal court Monday and said it was currently formulating a plan of desegregation for the district.

A boycott by Negro children of the Marvell school has been in effect since classes began with some 1,500 students reportedly staying away from school.

The board said the boycott had impaired its effort to formulate a desegregation plan and had "resulted in a substantial disruption of the orderly conduct of the district's educational program."

Penn State and Maryland have arranged football games for the next five years.

CHATTER

By: "Bill"

People in the know, large fashion operators who make a study of styles far in advance, have this to say:

Shirts will continue to be about mid-knee, a little longer for the woman who likes them longer and a little shorter for the young. The mid-way coat turned out by Dior and some of the Paris designers, half way between the knee and ankle, caused a mild sensation but it was just a trial balloon to see what the reaction would be. Coats will remain about one inch longer than dresses.

There is not much chance of doing away with the shift, although there are waist-line dresses for those who want them. But women like the no-belt freedom and are not going to do anything about them just now. The most important look is in the fabric and the flowing lines of a garment. Clutter is out. The very young will still go mod. . . but the talent now is to make women of all ages look youthful without being kiddish. And that is mostly a matter of size and not age.

Now that we have given you the best of what we have rummaged thru many fashion magazines and trade papers to summarize, we would like to SHOW you. Our many years in this business have taught us there is a style for every female, and we would like to help you with yours.

Fall and winter merchandise is simply flowing in and we are happy to say it is going out too. We have almost as many winter coats in our layaway as we have in stock. May we show you yours today? The place is, . . .

Television and Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — Seven new programs were dropped into the network channels over the weekend without, sad to report, any one making much of a splash.

Focus of most viewer interest was probably the return of two old favorites, Milton Berle and Garry Moore, to the weekly schedules with their own variety shows.

Inclie Millie's comeback vehicle on ABC did not look too different from the one he left us in. Even Lucille Ball's presence didn't help the comedy much.

Garry Moore's new CBS hour also appeared to suffer from opening show jitters. In spite of all the talk about the "new faces," two of them turned out to be Jackie Vernon, whose dead-pan comedy has been widely viewed on the TV variety circuit, and John Byner, the impressionist doing his familiar imitations of George Jessel and Ed Sullivan.

ABC's "Time Tunnel" on Friday night had an interesting premise — scientists able to break through time barriers. But the premise itself destroys much suspense. In the first episode the two scientists found themselves aboard the Titanic just before it was to hit the iceberg, and of course could not prevent the tragedy. But the excitement came from the stunning sets showing the time tunnel equipment that could move man around in time.

CBS' "It's About Time" which premiered Sunday night, was a pretty sad little comedy and coincidentally based on the same idea — breaking the time barrier. This one had two astronauts set down on the earth a million years ago. In the first episode, they were busy teaching a tribe of cavemen how to give a birthday party.

Probably the most substantial show of the weekend was ABC's "Shane," on Saturday. This is a well produced Western. Shane is a feared gun-fighter working as a hired man for a farm family in danger of being run off their land by a mean cattleman. David Carradine plays Shane in an interesting silent, angry fashion. "Hey, Landlord" on NBC Sunday night, got off to a wobbly start with a silly story about a bashful bachelor's infatuation with a girl's picture. Will Hutchins and Sandy Baron, the show's stars, work well together and with some improved scripts might be able to turn the show into one of the few new bright comedy spots seen so far.

The Voice of America is the radio network of the U.S. Intelligence Agency.

MY SISTER THE STINKER

Dear Helen: I have a big family. I have seven sisters and four brothers. I'm 14, the youngest, and an aunt 22 times. Out of my whole family there is only one sister I actually fight with — Sara. She is 25 and constantly picks on me.

She lives at home because her husband is in the Service. She won't even let me go in the car with her to the store, even if I'm supposed to go shopping for my mother. Even if my mother pays for the gas.

Sara yells at me for looking at her wrong. She hits me, bosses me, browbeats and belittles me — and more that I can't put in this letter.

I get along fine with the rest of the family, and I guess that is unusual in such a big one. What makes it so rough with me and my sister? — SIS

Dear Sis: There are people who just naturally shoot sparks when they get within shouting distance of each other. You may think this is all your sister's fault, but I have an idea she thinks the same of you.

Possibly you're so much alike — don't groan: I'll bet your mother agrees — that you know how to light each other's fuses. If you'll dig down deep and uncover what cause this personality clash, you may find ways probably never be as close with this sister as you are with the rest of the family. With ten other brothers and sisters, plus 22 nieces and nephews, does it really matter? — H.

Dear Helen: I have a job that pays me $154 a month. I have to give half of it to my parents. My father thinks I should give three-fourths of it to them.

In return, they room and board me and buy my clothes. I'm 17, still in school. I use their car to go the mile to and from work. I say half to them is okay, but no more. What do you say? — L.S.

Dear L: You didn't say where the money went after you gave it to your parents. If they're putting it away in your college fund, then three-fourths might be okay, though that leaves you only about a dollar a day for necessities and fun.

If it's strictly room, board, and clothing, even $77 a month is pretty steep for a high school student. . . And how come a 17-year-old, who can earn $154 a month, doesn't yet buy his own clothes? You should learn to dish it out as well as rake it in. — H.

Dear Helen: I am 15. I met an 18-year-old guy I thought I really cared for. He is what you would consider a hood. My Dad would consider him a thug.

My problem is, though he always treated me with respect, I don't like him any more. He thinks he owns me. But I'm scared to tell him it's quits because my folks never knew I was going with him. If I get this fellow mad, he may tell my Dad, and then I'll be in real trouble. What do I do? — M. U.

Dear M: Break up, shap up, face up, and 'fess up: If you don't tell your father the truth — NOW — he may take the hood's work for it later on. — H.

Dear Helen: I wish my teacher were my father! I can never discuss anything with my father, but, if I have problems my teacher is the one I think of to talk to. My dad is okay, I just can't talk to him.

I hate my mother, otherwise I would ask her about this instead of you. How come I take problems to my teacher and leave my Dad in a dark corner? — L. C. L.

Dear L: It's often easier to discuss your problems with someone who isn't personally involved with them. For example, you'd have a tough time explaining to your Dad why you hate your mother — HIS wife — but your teacher can listen without getting upset about it. If he's a good counselor he will do much to bring you closer to your family. Do not worry about having an understanding friends — everybody needs one! — H.

Trojans Take on Longhorns at Texas

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Southern California's Trojans, beaten out of the Rose Bowl assignment in the final four minutes of the deciding game last November, will again be a powerful contender in the race this autumn. The Trojans get their first test Saturday at Austin against a highly regarded Texas Longhorn team, and it could be a rough one. Ten years ago at Austin, the last time the teams met, the Trojans ran off with the contest, 44-20.

Texas, Trojan Coach John McKay has been advised, have long memories.

The 1966 warriors of Troy are large and reasonably fast and McKay says he has more backfield depth than he's ever had in his six years at Southern Cal.

This is fortunate because it'll take such depth to replace one graduated star, All-America, Heisman Trophy winner, halfback Mike Garrett.

With Iron Mike gone, McKay notes, more people will get to handle the ball. Among them is right halfback Rod Sherman. This 190-pound senior possesses a remarkable average of six yards per carry in his career at USC.

There is one question mark involving this redhead. He underwent knee surgery last winter. The knee apparently is now sound but Sherman has been handled carefully in pre-season practice.

On the Garrett left side McKay is depending upon three men, Don McCall, Wilson Bowie and Steve Grady. Bowie is a sophomore, McCall a senior and Grady a junior.

Troy Winslow, a senior, is the No. 1 quarterback. Somewhat overlooked when honors were passed around last year, Winslow, however, is a very important cog in the grid machine.

He passed for 11 touchdowns, completed 61 per cent of his throws and ran for 319 yards. Winslow's pass receivers include Sherman, senior Ray Cahill, Jim Lawrence and an outstanding junior college transfer from nearby Fullerton, Rich Leon.

Up front on offense is right guard Jim Homan, the lone returning starter. But he'll be joined by Ron Yary, at 6-6 and 265 pounds plus the biggest man on the team, who was switched this fall from defense to offense.

The Trojans, who were 7-2-1 in 1966, after Texas, meet Wisconsin, Oregon State, Washington, Stanford, Clemson, Miami, California, UCLA and Notre Dame.

On one play, Patton yelled "Denver" and the backs moved into position. On another, Landon Crow hollered, "Omaha."

Don't Rock Boat Law

By WM. T. MCKEOWN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Most boatmen want to do the right thing, according to Fred Lifton of Chicago, but they find it's not easy.

As head of the Boating Industry Association, Lifton helps advise states concerning laws to tell boatmen what they should and shouldn't do.

Lawmakers ashore, it turns out, like to think cars and boats are about the same thing.

But there's a big difference. Boats don't have brakes. They don't stick to roads where signs can be posted along the way, and they range from river rafts to ocean yachts.

Cross a state-line lake with a water skier in tow and a skipper may suddenly be breaking a law if he doesn't have a rear-view mirror. Steer along coastal waters and he may not even need a paddle or anchor along in case of motor failure.

Like cars, a boat does run into new regulations at almost every state boundary offshore, and even ashore as well if she's riding the highways on a trailer. To help the boatman plan a trip and keep him out of trouble, handbooks of boat and trailer laws, by regions, are available from the Boating Industry Association, 333 North Michigan, Chicago.

Almost every pleasure power boat, and in some states all sailboats as well, must have a life preserver for every passenger. Also proper navigation lights if the boat is out at night, a horn, an approved-type fire extinguisher if there is a motor, and that's about it as far as the Coast Guard is concerned.

No anchor, no first-aid kit, no dock lines or bilge pump are specified, since the rules have to cover from rowboats and runabouts to racing schooners and cabin cruisers.

So states have added assorted laws to fill the gaps. Some want engine mufflers to quiet down the early morning hot rods. Others call for a flashlight, distress flares, rope, adequate flotation foam and a pump or bailing can aboard.

The boatman who overloads or overpowers his boat, rolls out a steep wake, lets passengers ride on the forward deck, drives recklessly or throws trash overboard can also be picked up in some states.

But fortunately, most states are trying to be reasonable, even if they can't agree on all their laws. Now 32 out of the 50 states even keep an eye on their water-side townships that like to pass extra boat laws or let the sheriff set sea-going equivalents of speed traps.

Meat Hein, American Football League supervisor of off-line, says Jet quarterback Joe Namath gets the ball away so quickly he reminds him of Bob Waterfield.

—Army on the March?—

By DAVE BURGIN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WEST POINT, N.Y.—(NEA)—The sign posted at the turnoff to Camp Buckner, the Army football team's pre-season practice grounds, reads:

"Area Off Limits to All Unauthorized Personnel."

A visitor forgot to get authorized and somehow missed the sign and two cars full of MPs escorted him out with the polite admonishment, "Sorry, sir, but not even the commandant can get in here without prior approval."

"Really now, not even the commandant?"

"That's right, sir. Coach Cahill has requested it."

Army football, after four years under publicity-wise Paul Dietzel, is back to normal.

Of course, this doesn't mean the football prominence West Pointers knew under Col. Earl (Red) Blaik is about to be restored. Those days may be gone forever.

It means the game of football under coach Tom Cahill will be approached the way cadets approach all their other duties—the military way.

Gone are the gimmicky signs plastered all over the locker room and dotting the road to the field.

The decorated trucks which carried players to and from the practice field (in colors Paul Dietzel used to designate his many squads) are back in the West Point motor pool. Cahill has the team walking the half-mile.

The mess hall truck which daily carried several gallons of orange juice and a crate of lemons to practice sessions is nowhere to be seen. Players get only small rations of water.

And the sign at the turnoff bars the press and well-wishers Dietzel often entertained during practice.

A quote from Townsend Clarke, Army's captain and fine linebacker, sums it up:

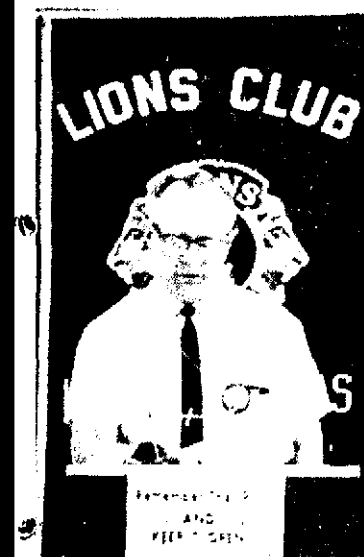

"For the past few seasons we have had a name coach. We had to rally around the name. Now we have a man to work for who gives us work and dirt and we all like the change."

When Cahill talks about his team, he tries hard to avoid

They Get on With LBJ Only Sometimes

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON — (AP) — Among the trials and tribulations of President Johnson are the Democratic and Republican leaders of the Senate, long-time friends and helpers who go along with him but only sometimes.

Take the Republican leader, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, 70, of Illinois. He said on occasion he and Johnson telephone each other six or seven times a day. When he was hospitalized recently with a broken hip, Johnson called him daily.

Earlier this year when the Republican House leader, Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, accused the Johnson administration of shocking mismanagement of the war in Viet Nam, Dirksen refused to endorse the criticism.

But this summer Dirksen accused Johnson of not being "candid or consistently credible" on the war. Then two days later, after a White House meeting with other congressional leaders, Dirksen came away calling it a "satisfying experience."

Last year he was a main prop in getting the civil rights bill through the Senate. But now he has just about killed all hope for the 1966 bill. First, he opposed the open housing section. Then he said he disliked other sections.

Then he said he would oppose the whole bill. Without him, and the Republican help he could muster, the administration can hardly hope to crush the inevitable Southern filibuster. A two-thirds vote is needed to shut off debate.

That Dirksen zigs and zags is a fact of life. The New York Times reported that during Dirksen's 6 years as a member of the House he had changed his position 31 times on military preparedness, 62 times on isolationism, and 70 times on agricultural policy.

Now take the Democratic leader of the Senate, Mike Mansfield, 63, of Montana. He was Johnson's right-hand man in the 1950s when Johnson was Senate leader. Mansfield got the job in 1961 when Johnson became vice president.

Since then he has been Johnson's captain in steering administration legislation through the Senate, a quiet, kind, gentle man who believes a senator should speak out when he feels strongly about something, if he is qualified to speak.

Recently Mansfield proposed that Johnson meet with French President Charles de Gaulle in a French island in the Caribbean to talk about peace in Viet Nam. This must have galled Johnson, who stiff-arms the Frenchman.

But the White House said nothing. It let the State Department do the speaking and the State Department brushed the idea aside.

More recently Mansfield truly agitated Johnson when, speaking for the 13-member Senate Democratic Policy committee, he proposed that the Senate quickly pass a resolution saying U.S. forces in Europe should be substantially reduced.

The administration doesn't want any part of troop withdrawal from Europe right now. Dirksen quickly rushed to Johnson's aid by insisting that before the Senate vote on the Mansfield suggestion a Senate committee should hold hearings on it. This would take time and probably will kill the idea altogether.

Every time there is an international crisis, Dirksen backs Johnson, believing you can't let the President down when there is a war on.

He calls himself a "garden variety of Abraham Lincoln," says he has tried to be a "negative brake" on progress when he thinks the country is in danger of moving too fast.

Mansfield and Dirksen, except for the fact that they both get in Johnson's hair at times, are not alike. Mansfield stays more in the background, says Little, makes it to the point.

Dirksen is the greatest actor in Congress since the 19th century. He believes in the "oil can" approach to problems. If sometimes he sounds a little too oily it may be because, as one writer said, he has a stained-glass voice.

Flier Who Escaped Has Liberties

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Lt. (j.g.) Dieter Dengler, Navy flier who escaped his North Vietnamese captors, reportedly has weekend and evening liberties from the naval hospital in San Diego.

Dengler, 26, trekked 23 days through the jungle after being captured by the Communists when his plane was shot down last February. While escaping, he said, he witnessed the capture and beheading of another escapee, an Air Force pilot.

He was admitted to the hospital July 27.

The San Diego Union, in a copyrighted story, reported Saturday that Dengler's first night out of the hospital was spent at a downtown night club on Aug. 18.

Rolvaag Tries for Votes in Minnesota

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Gov. Karl Rolvaag of Minnesota, denied endorsement for renomination by the state Democratic-Farmer-Labor convention, tries for a primary election vindication from the voters today.

In Massachusetts, Democrats settle a pair of hot contests over nominations for governor and senator.

Eleven states are holding primaries in the year's busiest day for ballot boxes except for Nov. 8 when all 435 members of the House, 35 senators and 35 governors will be elected.

Other states conducting primaries are Arizona, Colorado, Maryland, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Utah, Vermont and Wisconsin.

Rolvaag's primary opponent, endorsed by the convention, is Lt. Gov. A. M. (Sandy) Keith, 37.

Keith's backers argued in the convention that Rolvaag, 53, couldn't be re-elected. He was elected to his first term in 1962 by 51 votes.

The dumping of Rolvaag stirred a wave of sympathy in the state. Many political analysts regarded him as the favorite in today's balloting, expected to bring out 600,000 to 700,000 votes.

In Massachusetts, Edward J. McCormack former attorney general, contends with Kenneth P. O'Donnell, once an aide to President John F. Kennedy, for the Democratic nomination for governor. McCormack, a nephew of House Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass., was endorsed by the state party convention.

Former Gov. Endicott Peabody, endorsed for the Senate nomination, is opposed by Mayor John F. Collins of Boston and Thomas B. Adams, a Boston businessman.

Of the 11 states, nine elect governors this year. Republican Govs. John A. Volpe of Massachusetts, John A. Love of Colorado, John H. Chafee of Rhode Island and Warren P. Knowles of Wisconsin are unopposed for renomination.

Democratic Govs. Philip Hoff of Vermont and John W. King of New Hampshire also have no primary opposition. Democratic Gov. Sam Goddard of Arizona, like Rolvaag, is involved in a primary contest.

bidders for the Democratic nomination to succeed retiring Democratic Gov. J. Millard Tawes.

Apparent front runners are Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan and Rep. Carlton R. Sickles. Spiro T. Agnew, Baltimore County executive, appears sure of Republican nomination in a field of five.

Mills Named Permanent Demo Chairman

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., will serve as permanent chairman of the 1966 Democratic state convention, Leon B. Catlett said Monday.

Catlett, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, said Mills must be nominated and elected by the delegates when the convention opens Thursday. No opposition is expected.

Catlett said Mills had accepted the invitation which was easily presented by gubernatorial nominee Jim Johnson and Catlett.

The party chairman also said that Reps. E. C. Cathings and James W. Trimble will also address the convention.

David Pryor of Camden, candidate for Congress from the 4th District, has previously been named temporary chairman and keynote speaker.

Catlett also announced that the final 90 minutes of the convention will be seen on statewide television over six stations at Little Rock, Fort Smith, El Dorado, Jonesboro and Memphis.

"We're having an open convention, completely free of domination by any one man or faction," Catlett said. "We believe this will be a wholesome contrast with the conduct of the minority party (Republican) in their convention and their campaign."

Mike Mansfield that the administration would rather have no bill at all than one without the housing section obviously reflected a political judgment by President Johnson.

As Senators read Johnson's position, it is that Republicans can be blamed for the failure to pass any civil rights legislation in an election year of racial turmoil.

If Dirksen has any fear of Negro retaliation against GOP candidates, he and his Republican senatorial followers are considerably less disturbed by the prospect than some other members of his party. The suspicion is that Dirksen feels white reaction to open housing will more than counterbalance any loss in Negro support.

Six of the Senate's 33 Republicans came forward to sign a debate-limiting petition Mansfield filed Monday. The Senate will vote on the cloture motion Wednesday—the seventh working day on the measure—and Dirksen predicted it will be defeated.

The six GOP members who signed are Sens. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, Hiram L. Fong of Hawaii, Jacob K. Javits of New York, Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, and Robert P. Griffin of Michigan.

14 Cases of Encephalitis

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Suspected cases of encephalitis in Arkansas climbed to 14 over the weekend with the report of five additional cases, State Health Officer Dr. J. T. Herron said Monday.

Herron said the cases were reported from Pulaski, Union, Three cases have been declared "presumptive positive," or almost confirmed to be of the St. Louis type, Herron said.

THE BORN LOSER

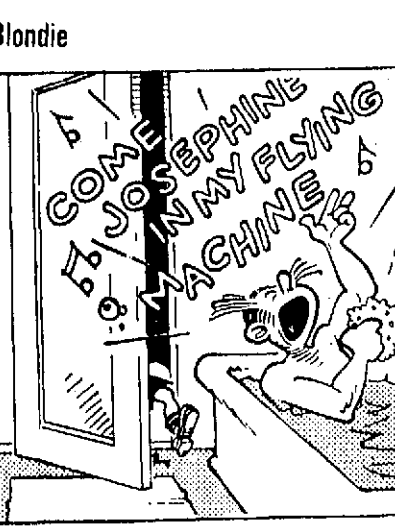

In July of 1850, 500 ships in the harbor of San Francisco were deserted by their crews to join the gold rush. There were already 80,000 men in the area who had flocked to the coast in search of wealth in the gold fields. Half of them came overland, the rest by ship. In 1850 only 8 per cent of the population in California were women. In the mining country the ratio was 2 per cent.

Grand Slam Is In His Hand

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

When today's hand was played back in the late thirties South rattled off four rounds of trumps and discarded a club and a diamond from dummy.

Then he led a heart to dummy's ace, ruffed a heart, led a club to dummy's king, ruffed another heart and remarked, "I am going to cash three diamonds. If West started with five hearts and four clubs he is going to be squeezed and I will make seven."

West showed his hand. South settled for six at which point the late M. D. (Jimmy) Maier, one of the greatest players of all time who was watching, said, "The way the cards lay you should have made seven by means of a logical series of plays."

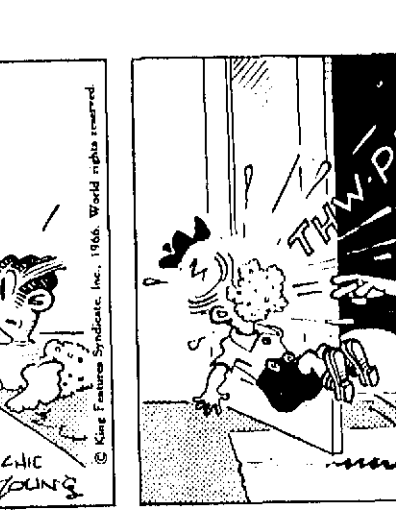

South disagreed, whereupon Jimmy demonstrated the way to make the grand slam. Can you figure it out?

He ran off the same four trumps but discarded two clubs from dummy. Then he led a heart to dummy's ace and ruffed. Next came three rounds of diamonds with dummy holding the lead. At this point everyone was down to four cards. Dummy held ace-

THE DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Warfarin Is Rat Poison But Also Has Medical Use

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—Do doctors ever give warfarin to human beings to dissolve blood clots? Isn't this a rat poison?

A—Warfarin will prevent clotting but will not dissolve clots. It is used as a rat poison but it has its legitimate uses in human medical treatment in carefully regulated doses. Anyone who is taking this, or any other anticoagulant, should have weekly checks of his blood-clotting time.

Q—Is it possible to perform a hysterectomy and leave part or all of the cervix in place? If so, what are the advantages?

A—When a partial hysterectomy is done, the advantages are less risk of damage to the bladder and rectum, less risk of infection of the abdominal cavity (peritonitis) and hence a lower death rate. With improved techniques, however, these considerations are no longer very important and most specially trained gynecologists prefer the complete removal of the uterus. With the latter operation there is less danger of prolapse of the uterine stump and less danger of subsequent cervical cancer.

Q—My doctor says I have atrophy of the cervix. Is this serious? What is the usual treatment?

A—With advancing age after the menopause there may be some shrinking of the entire uterus. This is a normal process and requires no treatment.

Q—What are the five classes of the Pap test for women? Are all five considered to be cancer?

A—Class 1 is considered benign with no abnormal cells; repeat in one year. Class 2 is benign with a few abnormal cells; repeat in 6 months. Class 3 is benign with many abnormal cells; repeat in one week. Class 4 shows cells suggestive of cancer but not definitely so; a biopsy specimen should be taken. Class 5 shows cells that are definitely malignant; a biopsy specimen should be taken unless other findings confirm a diagnosis of cancer in which case the uterus should be removed without delay.

Q—My doctor is giving me Arlidin for my dizziness. I have been taking it for three months but no improvement. What are the pills for and are they harmful?

A—Nylidrin (Arlidin) is given to dilate the arteries in persons with hardening of the arteries. Reynaud's disease, Buerger's disease, leg cramps and vascular complications of diabetes. It would not directly affect your dizziness but might improve the underlying cause. Nervous tension and palpitation of the heart may occur if the dose is too large.

China Guards Resisted in Rural Areas

By BENE-GEORGES INAGAKI
TOKYO (AP) — Communist China's Red Guards are meeting stiff resistance as they push the cultural revolution from Peking into the countryside, Japanese correspondents reported today.

They reported that a crowd of 200,000 battled the youthful guards at Kwelin in southern China when the reformers demanded the resignation of the city's mayor and that army troops were called in to restore order.

In another development, Peking Central New China News Agency indicated that Premier Zhou Enlai has been removed from his post as vice chairman of the Chinese Communist party. However, he apparently retained the premier ship.

The Japanese correspondents reported from Peking that the Red Guards in a city south

Winning The Reward

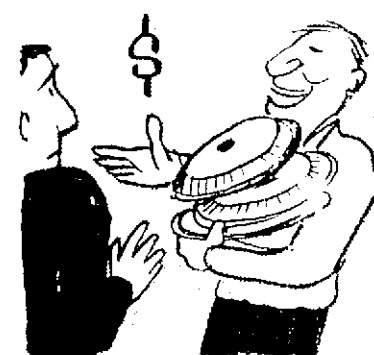

Edwards flew into a rage when he found the hub caps missing from his car. Shaking his fist, he sputtered:

"Why, I'd give $100 to know who stole those hub caps!"

The man next door, hearing these words, took them literally. He did a little quiet sleuthing, and, sure enough, discovered the culprit.

But when he claimed a $100 reward, Edwards refused to pay off. And in a court test, the judge sided with Edwards. His angry exclamation, said the judge, was obviously just a way of letting off steam, not a serious offer of a reward.

The legal obligation to pay a reward is based not on the ethics of gratitude but on the principles of contract law. There must be an offer, seriously meant. And there must also be a performance that fits the terms called for in the offer.

Thus, a reward offered for locating a robber "and" his loot is not earned by one who locates the robber, but not the loot.

Nevertheless, to encourage the catching of criminals, the law usually gives the claimant the benefit of the doubt.

For example:

An alert citizen led police to the hideout of a fugitive killer. But their effort to arrest him resulted in a gun fight in which the fugitive was slain. In these circumstances, was the citizen entitled to a reward offered for the man's arrest?

A court said he was indeed, because—for all practical purposes—he had done the job for which the reward was offered.

Is everyone eligible for a reward that is offered to the general public? No. As a matter of public policy, certain individuals may be disqualified even if the reward offer doesn't say so.

For instance, a policeman who does no more than his duty cannot ordinarily claim a reward offered by the victim of a crime. Otherwise, the police might be tempted to give better service to people willing to offer rewards.

Nor may a reward be claimed by someone who was himself involved in the crime. Thus, a man who helped to find some stolen shoes was denied a reward when it turned out that he had also helped to steal them.

As one judge put it: "No man shall be permitted to profit by his own iniquity."

Costly Carriers

Everybody is glad to hear of plans to save government money. But it will come as a surprise to most to learn that the Post Office Department now is paying rural letter carriers 12 cents per mile to operate personal cars, while cars are available under a fleet lease arrangement to the department for only one cent a mile "including all expenses."

Postmaster General John A. Gronouski, addressing a convention of rural letter carriers in Charlotte on Monday night, told efforts to seek congressional authority for making this change.

If all of the department's 1,000 rural letter carriers drove 100 miles a day on their routes, they would pile up 3.1 million miles a day, 18.6 million miles in a six day week, and 9.6 million in a year. The difference between 12 cents and nine cents per mile transportation costs would figure out at more than 29 million a year savings. That's not a great amount as federal spending is calculated. But in a department always in the red, with postal rate increases threatened, it shouldn't take much debate to make this change. — Raleigh (N.C.) News and Observer

Ads Result in Sales

Nearly everything sold in a modern retail store loses value when it is not sold within a short period. A dress which is out of fashion, a car which is out of date, and home appliances which do not have the latest improvements are subject to "spillage" as is the fresh produce in a grocery store.

The consumer often thinks that he gains bargains from the possibility of spillage. It is the general belief of bargain seekers that the retailer absorbs the loss when goods are not sold during periods of greatest demand. However, the concept is false. To retailer can stay in business by selling "spoiled" goods at a loss. The cost of spillage, and the accompanying increased storage costs are passed on to the consumer. The cost has to be added to the price of other goods which the consumer demands. Spillage loss is ultimately passed on to the consumer even when old goods are completely discarded.

One of the major economic benefits of advertising to consumer and retailer alike is the reduction of spillage loss. Ideally, advertising eliminates loss altogether. This is often accomplished by retailers who have earned what to expect of advertising. A grocer simplified the explanation this way: "It is cheaper to advertise and sell beans at 12 cents a pound than to sell at 15 cents and allow for spillage and increased storage costs, which is necessary without timely advertising." — By Dr. S. S. Albert, Dept. of Journalism, University of Mississippi — Laurel, Miss., Leader - Call

Voster Picked to Take Over South Africa

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Justice Minister Balthazar Vorster was chosen today to become South Africa's seventh prime minister, succeeding Hendrik Verwoerd, who was assassinated a week ago.

Vorster was elected unanimously as national leader of the ruling Nationalist party at a full meeting of the party caucus in Cape Town's Parliament building, only a short distance away from the chamber in which Verwoerd was stabbed to death.

The party's unanimous choice, obviating a vote between contending candidates, was seen as indication of their resolve to choose a strongman leader, resolute in pursuing its apartheid (race segregation) policies without deviating from Verwoerd's race line.

Vorster swept to power without opposition when his only real contender for the nation's top post, Transport Minister Ben Schoeman, withdrew.

Schoeman told the meeting that after serious consideration he had decided not to accept nomination as party leader.

Space Walk Day's Gemini 11 Feature

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Astronaut Richard F. Gordon Jr., cut short his space walk and got back inside Gemini 11 today "because he got so hot and sweaty he couldn't see."

Gordon had been outside Gemini 11 about 35 minutes. "I just brought Dick back in," command pilot Charles Conrad Jr. told the Tananarive tracking station off the east coast of Africa.

The astronauts reported Gordon successfully attached a 100-foot tether from the Agena target satellite to Gemini 11's nose but plans for Gordon to become the first "space mechanic" were apparently eliminated.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The fast-flying Gemini 11 astronauts, holders of two new space records, whirled into their second day in orbit today, preparing for a lengthy space walk by Richard F. Gordon Jr.

Gordon and command pilot Charles (Pete) Conrad Jr. were awakened at 1:55 a.m. Conrad told ground control they were "bright-eyed and bushy-tailed" and ready to go to work.

A flight surgeon reported they slept four of eight hours in the sleep cycle, much as any traveler in his first night away from home and much the same as previous Gemini fliers.

The husky, Gordon, 36, planned to step into the silent emptiness of space about 9:30 a.m. to spend 115 minutes drifting more than once around the world as a human satellite.

Conrad was to hold the tiny ship steady as man and machine, connected by a 30-foot lifeline, raced through the skies at 17,500 miles an hour.

Maneuvering in the eerie world where only four other men have ventured, Gordon planned to dart about with a hand-held gas gun and try his hand as a space mechanic by tightening and loosening bolts on metal plate.

He'll also go over to the Agena, which is docked with the Gemini, and untow a 100-foot cord attached to the satellite. He is to fasten the loose end to the nose of Gemini 11.

Wednesday, Conrad plans to undock and back away from the Agena until the line becomes taut to determine if this is an effective, fuel-saving means of formation flying.

The pilots and mission controllers hoped for as much success today as the astronauts had Monday after the twice-delayed flight finally got off the launch pad at Cape Kennedy.

In the most flawless first-day performance yet for a U.S. man-in-space mission, Conrad and Gordon darted off the pad atop a Titan 2 rocket at 9:42 a.m. and sped unerringly after the Agena, which blasted off at 8:05 a.m.

Before they completed one circuit of the globe they had captured the target, docking with it in record time.

"It's a big thrill," Conrad exclaimed. "Very nice and thrilling."

They had beaten the previous Gemini rendezvous time by two orbits and nearly three hours.

Then, in history's first multiple-docking mission, the two pilots took turns unlinking and re-joining with the Agena.

Now Time to Enroll in Adult Classes

A second opportunity is being extended for persons who wish to enroll in Adult Education classes. Only seven adults have enrolled.

ACTING HEAD of the South African government following assassination of Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd is Dr. Theophilus Ebenezer Donges, 68, left, a supporter of apartheid, the policy of strict segregation of races, but regarded as a relative moderate on racial matters. Minister of Justice Balthazar Johannes Vorster, 51, right, is considered the likeliest candidate to be named Verwoerd's successor as prime minister. A vigorous enforcer of apartheid laws as the nation's top policeman, he was himself imprisoned during World War II for leading a Nazi underground movement.

Bomber Wave Pounds North Viet Nam

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Waves of American bombers pounded North Viet Nam Monday in the biggest aerial assault of the war, the U.S. command announced today.

It was the second day in a row that U.S. planes mounted record raids, and pilots claimed inflicting damage on four surface-to-air missile sites and blowing up two Soviet-made missiles.

American airmen flew 170 missions in all. This was one mission below the record set on Sunday but a U.S. military spokesman said the number of sorties (individual strikes) exceeded Sunday's by one.

The heavy assault involved between 400 and 500 individual strikes.

Ground action continued to lag. U.S. military headquarters reported no significant action. South Vietnamese headquarters reported two brisk engagements but none of large scale.

The air blows against the North Monday cost the American raiders one plane, a U.S. spokesman said. An Air Force F107 Thunderchief was shot down 45 miles northwest of Vinh and the pilot is missing.

During the forays, Air Force pilots hit at a missile site 30 miles northwest of Dong Hoi. Pilots reported hitting two missiles. One, they said, went off into the air and exploded with a large orange fireball. The other was seen zigzagging erratically across the ground.

One the same site, U.S. pilots reported destroying two other missiles last Saturday.

Air force pilots also claimed damaging a missile site 31 miles northeast of Thanh Hoa. In the meantime, carrier-based Navy pilots attacked two other areas 25 miles north of the port city.

In other developments, the U.S. military command issued orders to limit the number of American servicemen in downtown Saigon. Under the new order only a third of the men in any unit may receive passes allowing them to be out of their billets after working hours, and they must be off the streets by 11 p.m.

The Viet Cong claimed today they had "annihilated" nearly 600 South Vietnamese government troops in an ambush near Phay My last Thursday. Hanoi's Viet Nam news agency reported the Viet Cong statement in a broadcast monitored in Tokyo.

Police Give Students Protection

GRENADE, Miss. (AP) — The highway patrol has been called to protect Negro children attending newly desegregated schools.

Patrolmen stepped into a virtual law enforcement void after a day in which white men, swinging ax handles and chains, attacked Negro children leaving the schools.

The 175 burly officers, in full riot dress, took over Monday night. They dispersed one hostile crowd early today. A white man who argued was slugged unconscious and carted off in an ambulance.

The crowd dispersed reluctantly, with cries of "Nigger lover!" and "I thought you were a good Mississippian!"

Several hundred whites, shouting defiance of both state and federal authority, held a furious session Monday night in the City Hall auditorium to demand that the patrol be withdrawn.

"If you get that state highway patrol out of here there won't be a nigger left in Grenada," cried one man.

Mayor J. D. Quinn avoided replying to an angry query as to what official called for patrol aid. But he said the move was necessary, otherwise troops or U.S. marshals would have been sent in.

Under state law, the highway patrol may not go into a law enforcement situation off the highways unless local authorities invite them or the governor orders them in.

Some 30 highway patrol cars were in this North Mississippi town of some 8,000 residents Monday — but were not called in early to aid the city and county officers, most of whom merely watched the beatings.

One 12-year-old Negro, Richard Sigh, hobbled nearly a block with a broken leg through a gauntlet of men. Many women were present, cursing and shrieking, but the men did all the beatings.

Sigh and three others, all 16-year-olds were hospitalized.

The crowd also attacked newsmen and photographers. Two cameramen from Memphis, Tenn., 105 miles to the north, were beaten in the street near the school. A newsmen from Jackson was attacked by about 20 whites.

Some 150 Negroes desegregated the city's two all-white schools, one elementary, the other a high school. They stand side by side.

Others were chased back by white men, who were directed by walkie-talkie radio messages from pickup trucks cruising the area. Of those who got to the schools, most stayed inside until they got a police escort.

Street Riots, Open Housing Threaten to Bury Civil Rights Bill

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) —

Violence in the streets and the administration's refusal to back down on open housing threaten to bury any chance that Congress will pass civil rights legislation this year.

The Senate resumes perfunctory debate on the House-passed bill today, preliminary to a test vote Wednesday when the measure may be laid to rest.

Although Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., the bill's sponsor, said "it just does not make good sense" to kill the bill because of racial demonstrations and riots, most of his colleagues blame such disturbances for the lack of enthusiasm for the measure.

President Johnson said Monday "we will do everything we can" to obtain passage of the bill, but conceded at a news conference "we have some problems in the Senate which appear quite serious."

Johnson said much depends on whether Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen will drop his opposition to the bill's controversial open housing provision.

"I am hopeful we can find some way to get this support," he said of Dirksen. Johnson said he had talked with the GOP leader, but did not say when nor give details of their conversation.

Dirksen indicated in an interview the administration might have salvaged part of the legislation if it had abandoned the open housing section he contends is unconstitutional.

This provision, which would ban racial discrimination in the sale and rental of about 40 per cent of the nation's housing, has drained away support among Northern senators for the overall measure as they have assessed the violent reaction to efforts to integrate some all-white neighborhoods.

Although he has criticized other sections of the measure — particularly a provision on selection of juries — Dirksen has never said he would be unwilling to entertain compromises on them.

School Offers Choice Plan

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A freedom of choice plan of desegregation in the Crawfordville School District has been submitted to U.S. District Judge Gordon E. Young.

The plan calls for desegregation of grades 7-12 this year and 1-6 next year.

The district was one of five in the state that failed last year to comply with the Civil Rights Act of 1964 by filing a desegregation plan. The court ordered the district to prepare a plan of desegregation.

Negroes on a Rampage

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — An estimated 300 Negro youths went on a wild rampage on Des Moines' near Northwest Side late Monday night, breaking windows and destroying property within an eight-block area.

The spree of destruction broke out after a high school cerebral palsy benefit football game at Drake Stadium, police said, when a mob of youths started obstructing traffic, poking fists through car windows at occupants and throwing objects at cars. Some 12,000 persons attended the game.

Sgt. Stanton Rodgers was struck in the back by a piece of broken cement about six inches square that had been hurled through the rear window of his police car. He was not seriously hurt.

Two youths reportedly suffered minor injuries. Rodgers said he called for help, and police cars near the stadium moved in and kept the mob in motion as they moved down a street that borders the football field.

At least 12 private cars in the area were damaged, and about 10 homes had broken windows, police said. Three police cars were dented by flying objects.

Several blocks east of the stadium, the crowd milled around a drug store and broke two large plate-glass windows.

Yesterday near the Guernsey area fire destroyed a house trailer owned by Jim Schroeder. Firemen made a run to the area and prevented the blaze from spreading. The fire ruined the trailer.

Rights Bill No Answer, McClellan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., told the Senate today that the civil rights bill now under consideration provides no answer to the civil rights problem.

"We are engaging in the perennial legislative shell game of delusion and deceit," McClellan said in a prepared speech. "We are once again witnessing the technique of the double R operation — the Negroes riot and Congress reacts."

Declaring that it is impossible civil rights movement, McClellan said that, in trying to meet their "unreasonable and illegal demands," Congress was indulging in false hopes and pursuing an illusion.

"If our government is really going to alleviate or eradicate poverty, ignorance and inequality in all forms and, if its purpose is to eliminate personal predilections, prejudices and bias wherever and whenever they exist, then I suggest that it is embarking on the wrong course when it proposes to do this simply by insisting on the enactment of still another in a long series of civil rights bills."

"We should know by now that a true and correct solution of these problems can only be found in and applied by the process of evolution and not by the forces of revolution."

McClellan said the nation is reaping the fruit of seeds of violence and disrespect for the law sown by leaders of some minority groups.

"This measure is not and cannot be a panacea for the riots, the looting and the mobs roaming the streets of American cities today," McClellan said.

"This bill is not a substitute for the real needs of our time," McClellan criticized President Johnson for using the civil rights battle cry, "We shall overcome," in his call for new civil rights legislation.

"It is ignoble and tragic for the Congress to succumb to threats of blackmail — threats of blood running in the streets unless this so-called civil rights bill of that so-called civil rights bill is enacted into law," McClellan said.

McClellan attacked each section of the bill and said, in conclusion:

"Even a cursory examination of this bill shows that it suffers the vice of vagueness, the insidiousness of innuendo, the evils of expediency and the unconscionableness of unconstitutionality. It should be rejected, defeated and it should be condemned and irretrievably relegated to oblivion."
